Evergreen Events

Evergreen, May 8.- After high frosts Saturday and Sunday mornings, the mercury has climbed rapidly since.

On Monday there was a maximum temperature of 90, while at 4 P.M. yesterday the temperature had climbed to 94 in the shade. The weather has been ideal this week for all farming operations and much corn is being planted. Wheat is looking well and nothwithstanding the mid-April freeze, red clover promises an abundant crop. Tobacco plants seem to be plentiful and the blue mold has not yet made its appearance.

Anyone traveling the highways at this time of the year must be impressed by the abundance of the dog-wood bloom, the honey-suckle, and th many other wild flowers so abundant at this season.

There is a beautiful legent in regard to the dog-wood. It is said that when Jesus had been condemned to die on the cross that the soldiers, in seeching for a suitable tree from which to make the cross, selected a dog-wood tree, and having made a cross, crucified our Lord thereon, and this is the reason the dog-wood has remained a dwarf to this day. If you will notice carefully, you will see that every dog-wood blossom is in the shape of a perfect cross.

Yesterday I ran across an old friend I had not seen for a number of years. He had raised a large family of children, who have gone out in the world and are making homes of their own, and father and mother are alone again, facing life's sunset with calm confidence. They have their radio and their county paper to help pass the tedious hours.

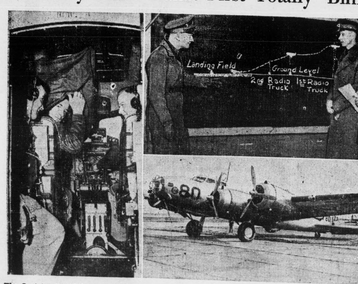
U. S. Army Plane Makes First Totally 'Blind' Flight



The first totally "blind" flight in the history of aviation was completed recently by a United States army air corps 22½-ton bomber as it landed at Langley Field, Va., from Mitchell Field, N. Y. Pilots W. A. Matheny and Carl McDaniel, shut off from outside vision by a canvas, relied solely upon instruments. Left: Crew of the huge Boeing fortress preparing for the historic flight. Top right: Diagram shows how radio signals sent out from two special trucks guides plane to a landing. Bottom right: The plane in which the experiment was made. Instead of following a radio beam, the plane was "on instruments" from take-off to destination, landed by signal broadcasts from the two radio trucks.

GOOD DAIRY COW PAYS ITS 'BOARD'

High Producing Animals Prove More Profitable.

By ELMER J. MEADOWS

One dairy cow that produces 545 pounds of butterfat a year will return as much money above feed cost as two cows that produce 350 pounds, or more than 13 cows that average 152 pounds of butterfat annually. That's what experiments at the Colorado State college indicate, says Elmer J. Meadows.

One 545-pound cow will return $108 above feed cost during a year, according to figures Meadows has compiled from actual experience. This figure is based on butterfat selling at 40 cents a pound.

Two cows each producing 350 pounds of butterfat a year will return only $4 a year more above the feed cost than the 545-pound cow and will cost $168 to feed, compared to $110, the feed cost of the large producer. Thirteen 178-pound cows will return $101.40 above feed cost during a year, and it will cost $689 to feed them.

If the extra labor required to milk and care for 13 cows producing 152 pounds of butterfat each compared to 2 producing 350 pounds each, is figured, it would further emphasize the necessity of keeping and breeding only cows with the ability to produce large amounts of milk and butterfat.

And so the question evolves—"Why not take a few cows that produce at least 350 pounds of fat a year rather than a whole corralful of the 152-pound group that produces only about 20 pounds less than the average dairy cow in the United States?"

U. S. Board Ends Dispute Over Naming of Island

A 160-year dispute over the correct name of the island on which the Statue of Liberty stands ended with the announcement by the United States board of geographical names that its correct name is "Bedloe's island."

The New York harbor island has been called "Bedlow island," "Bedloe island" and "Bedloes island" since it was owned by Isaac Bedloe between 1667 and 1672.

The geographical names board of the interior department decides disputes over names and selects names for places heretofore unnamed.

"Under Secretary Ickes," the announcement for the board's work stated, "the policy of the board has been to avoid officially naming places and objects after living persons so that the christening function cannot be used for political purposes."

Among the 398 decisions handed down in the last year was one concerning a bayou in Louisiana.

The stream, located in Terrebonne parish, should be called "Bayou Colyell," the board decided. It should not be called "Bayou Go-to-Hell."

Moose Be Wrong!

Many Indian tribes believed the moose came from the sea . . . and some believed that if the animal were hunted too heavily, he would return to the ocean as a natural refuge . . . which is a perfectly natural belief . . . because, if moose were seen by unreasoning Indians swimming from land distant, unseen island land, it might well be thought to come from the ocean water.

Red Cross Asks Big War Relief Fund

Miss Eula May Burke, chairman of the Appomattox Chapter of the American Red Cross, has received a telegram from the Hon. Norman H. Davis, national chairman of the American Red Cross, which follows:

"With the invasion of Holland, Luxembourg and Belgium, the war has entered a phase which will at once bring widespread and appalling suffering to millions of helpless men, women and children. In order to meet this unexpected relief measures the American Red Cross is at once launching a campaign for a minimum War Relief Fund of ten million dollars. Please at once mobilize the entire population of your Chapter and County in order that your people may know that their gifts are needed. Please send contributions as quickly as collected."

Miss Burke announced that the Rev. L. C. Shearer, pastor of the Memorial Methodist church has accepted the appointment as chairman of the campaign in Appomattox county.

She urges every citizen of the county to cooperate with Rev. Shearer in this drive for funds to help the millions of people who have been driven from their homes, many of whom are wounded and ill, cold and hungry.

Rev. Shearer requests all pastors and Sunday School superintendents, white and colored, in the county to appoint committees to canvas their communities. Also he requests all churches and Sunday Schools to make the appeal for gifts as all church services, prayer meetings and Sunday School sessions until further notice.

Rev. Shearer urges each man, woman and child in Appomattox county to make a sacrificial gift for the millions of innocent sufferers. Contributions may hand their gifts to their church and Sunday School committees, to either of the banks in the county, to Rev. Shearer or Miss Burke.

Pastors and Sunday School superintendents will please send names of the people on committees appointed to Rev. L. C. Shearer.

Miss Jamison To Visit County

Blue Ribbon Babies Program

Two additional "Blue Ribbon" babies in Appomattox county were announced this week. They are: Ann Curlyn Abbitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Abbitt and Frank Thomas Hanenkrat, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hanenkrat Jr.

The health department also issued a statement announcing the "Optimal Three Year-Old." It said: "The child of 3 years is very active. He runs and jumps and climbs and balances himself well. He tries to dance to music and likes rhythmic play. He can ride a tricycle well. He likes to do things with his hands. He can string beads easily. He enjoys pasting pictures and likes to try to draw. He likes to play with toys with which he can do something, such as large and small blocks, a cart or automobile or a train of cars. He may build a simple house with a few blocks. He will pretend that his blocks are a train of cars or automobiles. He should put his toys away after playing with them. He likes to hear and try to repeat nursery rhymes' and to hear short stories told or read over and over again. He likes to play simple imaginative games with other children or alone. He is already imitating many things that are going on around him—words, sounds and actions. He can feed himself without much spilling, but still needs supervision. He can help considerably with his dressing and undressing and can do a good deal for himself. He can take off and put on his hat, coat and hang them up, if hooks are placed low enough. He can unbutto, his clothes if the buttons are large and within reach, and can be learning to button them. He ca, take off his shoes after they have been untied, and can put them on. He should be learning to lace his shoes. He can wash his own hands and put the towel back on the rack. He can brush his teeth if he has some help. He should have control of bowels and bladder day and night. The average child of 3 years weighs about 30 pounds. Your child may weigh more or less, depending on his height. He should weigh from 23 to 40 pounds according to height and age. He should now have all his 'first teeth'. 20 altogether. He should have green to the dentist even if his teeth appeared to be good."

A list of "Blue Ribbon" and "Optimal" Babies in Appomattox county was recently published in the Times-Virginian.

Reach Decision To Run School Busses 4 Months In 1940-41

To Vote On Soil District On May 25th

Necessary to Balance Budget for County Schools

A decision on the vexing problem of the school budget for Appomattox county next season was reached at meeting of the board of supervisors Tuesday night. The meeting was attended by the school board and school superintendent. The upshot of the final budget decision was to operate all schools for nine months, but to operate school busses only four months, and thus balance the budget without borrowing money.

The County School Board had requested the Supervisors to authorize a temporary loan next year to enable operation of the full program, but this request was declined. The Supervisors had already agreed to a loan of $6,400 to finish out the present session and a loan of nearly $15,000 would have been required for the next session.

The School Board was authorized and directed to take enough money out of the item set aside for school busses so as to make the budget balance and to cut off the school busses for approximately five months next session. This action was necessary to make up for a loss in school funds usually received from State and other sources and to comply with the law in running all the schools of the county nine months. This will enable both elementary and high schools to run nine months.

It has not been decided yet which months the busses will be cut off.

It was suggested, however that the busses run for the months of December, January, Febuary and March and be cut off in the good weather of the fall andspring. This matter will be decided later at a board meeting.

It is estimated that this financial situation is general over the State, affecting over 40 per cent of the counties. Some of the counties are raising their taxes to take care of the emergency; others are borrowing money until the Legislature meets again in the hope of relief from that source; some are cutting the school term or bus service.

Last year was the first time in the history of the county that all the schools and busses ran for nine months. All reserve funds were used and no balance was carried over.

The total school budget for next year will be considerably less than $50,000 per annum. It costs $2,380 per month to operate the busses. It was pointed out that recent action of the Legislature as to salaries of the teachers would not affect the local situation, because this item was segregated by the State.

To Vote On Soil District On May 25th

A referendum on the creation of the proposed Robert E. Lee Soil Conservation District, will be held on May 25, from 9 A.M. to 6P.M.

The proposed district embraces all lands lying in the counties of Buckingham, Campbell and Appomattox, excluding that portion of Appomattox beginning at the Buckingham county line and following Route 24 to Vera, thence following No. 616 to No. 662 by Oakville to Wreck Island Creek, thence north on Wreck Island Creek to James River and east on James River to Buckingham county line to the starting point.

Any person holding title to three or more acres of land in the proposed district is eligible to vote.

Voting places will be open at the Stonewall school, Spout Spring school Evergreen, school, at Pamplin, Hixburg and Appomattox in this county. Votes may be cast at any one of these places regardless of where in the proposed district the voter lives and will be credited to the proper voting place in the check-up.

Farmers Urged To Save Seed

Recommendations by V. P. I. agronomists that farmers save crimson clover seed this year due to a prospective increased demand at fair spreading time, fit nicely into the Agricultural Conservation program in this state say AAA officials.

Agronomists recently pointed out that if farmer save crimson clover seed this season they will have them on hand when seeding time comes, and they will not have to go to the inconvenience and expense of buying them. Furthermore, home-grown seed are acclimated to the section where grown and farmers very probably may dispose of excess seed at a fair price.

AAA officials say that increased emphasis will be placed on the seeding of crimson clover and other winter cover crops this fall, and that it is a practice that may qualify for soil-building payments under the program. Consequently, they advise there will likely be considerable demand for crimson clover and other cover crop seed, and the grower who saves his own seed will have little to worry about from the standpoint of a possible scarcity and accompanying rise in price.

Under the AAA program farmers may use crimson clover to a distinct advantage, say officials. Credit is given in the fall as a seeding practice for planting the crop. The clover keeps green roots in the soil over the winter months and serves as a cover crop to prevent erosion and leaching of plant food. In the spring the farmer may harvest seed to supply his own fall needs and probably have additional seed to sell as a cash crop.

Crimson clover therefore provides farmers an opportunity to earn soil-building payments, provide a winter cover crop and a supply of home-grown seed and possibly an additional cash income from the sale of seed without seriously interfering with the normal crop rotation.

Agronomists have also recommended that farmers save hairy vetch seed this season, in view of plantings of this legume this fall. Vetch is among the crops that will be stressed under the Agricultural Conservation program as winter cover, say AAA officials and farmers may effect considerable savings in time and money by saving home-grown seed.
